A military unit retreats after being defeated by an insurmountable enemy — away from the action they can formulate strategies for a successful next attempt.

While a corporate retreat is less life threatening, entrepreneurial units need to retreat from their everyday economic warfare. Businesses struggle to evaluate goals, procedures and plans in the heat of the battle. A day away can make the workload a more surmountable opponent.

Whether your reason for leaving the office is to retreat or to convene with clients, Utah Valley and the surrounding area has venues to recharge the batteries, make the big sale or strategize your next move.

At ease.
