

24

Would-be First Lady

Ann Romney went from Gallup polls to galloping horses after her husband gave up his bid for the White House. In our interview, Ann recounts her days as a BYU freshman and a first-time mother at Utah Valley Regional Medical Center. Plus, find out why she leaves Mitt in the car when they go grocery shopping.

35

Atta Girl

The ladies of Utah Valley are doing it all. Get to know a few of the fairer sex's best inspirations.

56

Angels Among Us

Meet five locals who have earned their wings by helping others fly.

64

UVU is for you

It's official. Utah County has a new university, and one of the key men behind elevating the school is Jack Christian-son, director of the Center for Engaged Learning.

BYU grad Ann Romney finds joy and health in her horses, including Sandrina, her 10-year-old mare. Now that Mitt's presidential bid is off, Ann has traded business suits for equestrian suits at her Moorpark, Calif., training facility.

PHOTO BY INSTUDIO BY KENNETH LINGE