ImageWorks Academy of Hair Design has designed their program to cultivate students' cosmetology skills as well as life skills.

President and co-founder Ramona Wilson wants her students to feel fantastic about life and themselves, so she has incorporated a team of specialists to train her students in becoming confident, professional stylists. These specialists are hand-picked doctors and professors in the top of their fields, teaching self discipline, meditation, law of attraction, fashion, grammar, health, fitness and etiquette.

This training is over and above the concentrated cosmetology training given in classes that never exceed 10 students per class.

ImageWorks teaches a difficult hair styling curriculum based on the three different geometries of hair cutting. Small classes are crucial for this training.

Through this rigorous training program, graduates of ImageWorks possess all the skills necessary to build the success most stylists only dream of. The experts at ImageWorks are committed to creating confident, disciplined and self-motivated designers who are not only successful in the cosmetology field, but who are also successful in life.

Ramona has been in the cosmetology industry for 25 years and co-founded ImageWorks in 2002. She considers all of her students to be family and has dedicated her life to training them to become frontrunners in the cosmetology industry.

Currently, there are 54 students enrolled at ImageWorks preparing to become the beauty business leaders of tomorrow.
